This is a home with a story! Originally a 1940s Fort Jackson army barracks, this property was moved in the 1950s and completely reimaged in 2024. While three original brick walls and a charming fireplace remain, everything else has been completely rebuilt for modern living. Inside, you'll find a stylish mix of contemporary details and a unique charm. The open-concept layout features hardwood floors in the cozy living room, while large tile flooring extends from the entryway through the spacious kitchen. Running the full length of the left side of the home, the kitchen is as functional as it is inviting, with a separate prep area and sink, dedicated dining area and a flexible space perfect for a sitting nook, game table, or bar setup. A door off this space leads to the back deck, extending your entertaining options outdoors. The home offers two potential primary bedroom suites. One boasts a fireplace, private bath, and a secluded porch accessible from the bathroom - making this an optional guest suite. The largest bedroom sits at the back of the home, sharing a Jack-and-Jill bath with a bonus room/bedroom/office. Outside, a covered front porch spans two-thirds of the home's width, overlooking a deep front yard, while the spacious backyard provides endless possibilities for outdoor living and entertainment. Located within walking distance to downtown Winnsboro's charming shops, restaurants, and historic sites, this home is also just steps from the Mount Zion Walking Trail and the town's historical walking tour. With easy access to I-77, Columbia, Rock Hill, Fort Mill, and Charlotte, plus outdoor adventures at Lake Wateree, Lake Monticello, and the Palmetto Trail nearby, this is the perfect blend of small-town charm and modern convenience.
